PARKS OF THE CITY ARE AN ATTRACTION

One of the First Impressive Views of Ogden, as Caught by a Stranger, Is Central Park, in the Center of Which Is a Beautiful Fountain—Lester and Liberty Parks Are Frequented by Many—Children's Playgrounds in One of the Parks

As cities tend to increase in size spots to citizens and the city has always possessed good parks and is making arrangements to add others to the list. These places serve a double purpose in that they give to the city a clean appearance and furnish places of recreation. The city hall park is one of the latest beautified spots to be added to the city, although the part of the block occupied by the city hall has been an attractive place in the midst of the city for years. When the square was parked, a barren ugly spot was transformed within a short time to a site that is beautiful. Competent landscape gardeners used their talents in producing harmony of nature. Various shrubs were planted to relieve the monotony of the square and as a climax to the effect, an elaborate electric fountain was placed in the center of the ground to throw its cooling streams into the air.

As it now appears, Central park is the first place to attract the attention of strangers coming from the depot and the favorable impression secured by the glimpse of this beauty spot remains throughout their stay in the city. The wonders of the ground surrounding the city hall are known to but few. The caretaker could talk for hours on the variety of plants and trees that are found there. For instance, there is the Linden tree, the same variety of tree that makes the celebrated promenade in Germany known over the world. There are sycamore trees, and southern willow, and the maple tree southwest of the building is declared by many to be the most beautiful tree in the city because of its symmetrical shape. In fact there is one or more of many trees which are common elsewhere but are scarcely to be found in the state.

Another of the parks of the city is Lester, one of the first spots of the kind in the city. This park was the scene of practically every celebration of the city 15 or more years ago. Ball games and Fourth of July celebrations with fireworks were held there and the place was delightful for such purposes.

Since that time the trees, which filled half the square block, have been removed and the entire place is covered with grass with shrubs and bushes planted at intervals. It is still a popular place and is the resort of many during the heated days.

Liberty park always presents a lively appearance by reason of the fact that it is the location of one of the public playgrounds. This park covers 10 acres and nearly half has been turned over for playground purposes. The city has purchased modern apparatus for children's amusement and there is scarcely a moment when the swings, chute, merry-go-rounds and various other attractions are not in use. During the warmer days a wading pond is in operation and this, too, is well patronized.

It will be but a short time until other playgrounds are added. People in the south of the city and people in the north of Ogden desire similar places for their children and the commissioners, recognizing the need of such places are working to that end. With such parks and playgrounds, Ogden may well advertise that those who remove to Ogden to make this city their future home will find this a pleasant city for their children as well as themselves.
